NEWS CONTINUED:

We've passed the 3 month milestone and the final preparations are underway. Most importantly:

- lotje has a home to go to at the end of June, (thanks Cobie);
- as you already know party planning is in progress;
- we can stop feeling like human pin-cushions at the end of May (vaccinations!);
- garage sale date is set; and
- the weather is warm enough to get a bit of training in before departure day.

Not much has changed on the tour site since we last wrote, but then again that's no excuse not to visit. www.tour.tk | what a wonderful world tour

However, what has developed and a total miracle according to Aaldrik, is Sonya's art site (he thought she'd never finish it!) A few links/downloads still need connecting but nevertheless the site is in the air.

Take a look www.underthesamesky.net (of course, all comments welcome)

As mentioned above the Garage Sale date has been set. Everything must go! On Saturday July 15 and possibly Sunday July 16, you can come and take our belongings off our hands for a reasonable price. Closer to the date, more items will be represented on internet. Presently there's a limited selection of what is for sale but who knows; maybe there's something for you? If so, make a bid.
